Activity Overview and Record:

To help young children understand the origin of the Mid-Autumn Festival, teachers first introduce the festival's history, stories, food, and customs using the picture book "Mid-Autumn Festival." The school then organized parent-child activities such as riddle guessing, lantern design competitions, and mooncake making, allowing parents and children to experience traditional culture together. Finally, a Mid-Autumn Festival celebration was held, where children wore traditional attire, carried various lanterns in a lantern parade, simulated a moon-viewing gathering, and enjoyed festive foods.
